

Is prior Enneagram experience required?

No prior Enneagram study is required for either the Spiritual Explorers Path or the full CEP Training & Certification journey. Participants range from those entirely new to the Enneagram to experienced practitioners seeking deeper contemplative formation and embodiment.

Many participants have previously completed other Enneagram trainings or certifications yet are drawn to the spiritually inclusive, compassionate, relational, and contemplative depth of Evolving Enneagram's approach.

Do I need to know my Enneagram type before beginning?

No. A willingness to explore with curiosity, humility, and openness is far more important than certainty about type.

Are the modules live or self-study?

Modules are offered live online via Zoom, with recordings generally made available afterward for review and integration when appropriate.

Because portions of the program involve experiential dialogue, breakout rooms, and contemplative group process, some experiences cannot be fully replicated through recordings alone.

Does the program support interspiritual or spiritually diverse spaces?

Yes.

Evolving Enneagram's contemplative approach is intentionally spiritually inclusive and interspiritual in orientation. Participants come from a wide range of backgrounds, including contemplative Christianity, spiritual direction, ministry, Buddhism, mindfulness traditions, coaching, healing professions, interspiritual communities, deconstructing and reconstructing spaces, and those who do not identify with any particular tradition.

Many participants are also seeking to cultivate the capacity to facilitate or companion others within spiritually diverse spaces with greater presence, humility, discernment, and compassion.

Rather than promoting a singular theological framework, the program invites participants into contemplative awareness, sacred inquiry, embodiment, and deeper relationship with what is most essential and true.

Is this primarily personal growth or professional training?

Both.

CEP is rooted in contemplative formation and embodied transformation while also offering practical skill development for those feeling called to companion others through contemplative Enneagram work.

The Spiritual Explorers Path is oriented more toward personal growth, spiritual deepening, and self-understanding.

Will this qualify for IEA Accreditation Points?

Yes. CEP is designed to qualify for professional accreditation hours through the International Enneagram Association (IEA). Estimated point totals are shared throughout the program materials.

Returning participants may also qualify for additional IEA hours for continuing formation participation.

How much time should I expect to devote to the program?

The full CEP Training & Certification journey includes approximately 100 live training hours over the course of one year.

Participants are encouraged to approach the work spaciously and compassionately rather than striving for perfection or completionism.

In addition to live training hours, many participants naturally spend additional time in reflection, contemplative practice, journaling, integration, and community engagement throughout the year.

Are payment plans available?

Yes. Installment-based payment plans are available. Additional details are available on the registration page.

Are scholarships available?

Limited scholarship and sponsorship support may be available for those experiencing financial hardship. Participants are warmly encouraged to reach out if cost is the primary obstacle to participation.

Refund & Cancellation Policy

Because this is a relational, cohort-based program with intentionally limited enrollment, registration supports advance planning and the stability of the learning environment for all participants.

Participants who withdraw prior to September 1, 2026 may receive a full refund minus a $150 administrative fee. Partial refunds may be available through October 1, 2026.

Due to the cohort-based nature of the program, no refunds are available after October 1, 2026, though credits may be transferred toward another Evolving Enneagram offering.
